WELCOME TO GDAŃSK

Dear Collegues,

On behalf of the Organizing Committee it is my pleasure to welcome you to the 39th Meeting of the Polish Biochemical Society in Gdańsk.

There is an outstanding scientific program being developed, focusing the latest ideas on molecular aspects of biological processes in biochemistry, medical chemistry and molecular biology aimed to gather all scientists devoted to research in this most important field.

During the conference it will be also possible to listen to the music by famous composers of the ancient city of Gdańsk, thanks to collaboration with the orchestra Capella Gedanensis.

The city of Gdańsk with its over 400,000 inhabitants is among Poland’s most beautiful historical sites. The city was an important Hanseatic trading center and has retained an international flavor that dates back to early Middle Ages.

Gdańsk has always been a vital city of many cultural and commercial activities. In the course of history Gdańsk has had lots of very noble citizens, scientists or gifted leaders that are both famous and worldwide respected, among others: Hevelius, Schopenhauer, Fahrenheit or Lech Wałęsa, as to give just a few examples.

We are looking forward to seeing you all in Gdańsk in September 2003!
