Welcoming words

We would like to welcome everyone who is participating in the Frontiers in Cancer Prevention: Fulfilled Promises, Translational Challenges and Future Directions conference, particularly Speakers from abroad.

This conference aims to get together scientists with different research backgrounds who are working on cancer prevention. Since cancer treatment is a really difficult task and progress in this field is insufficient, a lot of hope lays in cancer prevention. Changes in one’s life style, like diet, exercise, stress management and others, seem to be crucial for reducing the cancer risk.

We hope that this conference will be a common platform for scientists working on various aspects of cancer prevention. It is very important to combine current knowledge from fields like nutrition, cell biology, epidemiology, genetics, sport science - to name a few - to combat the cancer epidemic.

We hope you will enjoy this meeting, acquire new friends and partners for carrying out exciting projects and learn as much from others as they will learn from you.
